

NATIONAL ECONOMIC STRATEGY

Optimize

Optimizing the economy requires the United States to approach the movement of money through the nation as an ecosystem that includes housing options, talent identification, citizen career empowerment, increased revenues from outside the country, and decreased government spending.

Empower

Empowering our citizens will require our education system to change from being a standardization process that ends by early adulthood to one that promotes individual skills and capabilities and that ensures access to learning through age 75.

Compete

Competing globally is a growing necessity that will be pervasive before the end of the century. We must come together as a nation to promote our creativity and diversity as unique American assets that can attract the best jobs for our people.
